should only be characterized as persecution, and avowed his determination never to yield obedience to its authority. Another London Rector, the Rev. T. P. Dale, of St. Vedast Church, has been inhibited from preaching, and his Ritualistic panoply removed, and banished from the edifice.
Mr. Joseph Arch, the English agitator, said in a recent speech that Lord Brougham might not venture taking the agricultural laborers to be shot at or 13 pence a day. They are determined to keep out of the wars of England until they obtain the suffrage.

James A. Cox, the Boston ex-broker and forger, died in the Massachusetts State Prison Dec. 22, from the effects of poison administered by his own hand. His life of a broken heart after his conviction. He had served two years and three months on taking the agricultural laborers to be shot at or 13 pence a day. They are determined to keep out of the wars of England until they obtain the suffrage.

The New York Times has a long letter from South Carolina in regard to the private history of Mr. Wade Hampton, which it sums up thus: "In the North, we should call a man with the record of Hampton a fraudulent bankrupt of a peculiarity character, and even in New York he would not be considered eligible for the meannest of city offices."

John Brabham, a resident of Bainbridge, O., in his home twenty-six years ago, was not again heard of until last Friday night. In the meantime his wife had died and his children had married and moved away. He offers no explanation of his absence, but covers his multitude of sins with the statement that he has brought a fortune back with him.

A picture made by Prof. S. F. B. Morse, the master of the engraving, has recently come to resemblance in New York. It is a portrait of the Rev. John Stanford, the first chaplain of the House of New York, and was painted by Morse about 1825, when he was a struggling artist. The canvass now hangs in the rooms of the Committee of the Sons of Charities.

Mr. Richard Grant White has been tried and convicted by all the society in England, from the lower to the upper classes. The President of the Philological Society, and his son, the President of the Royal Society of Medicine, were certain that the English could not be distinguished from that of a university-educated Graham, — which was very condescending and polite of Mr. Eliot to say.

The Manhattan Club of New York, which has long been the headquarters of the most prominent men of the profession in the country, is sinking under the burden of bad financial management. A change of managers and a new organization would have been effected a year ago, but for the fact that Mr. Tilden's friends were unwilling to injure him prospects by revealing the weakness of the Club.

It has been discovered that John D. Lewis, two years ago a prominent merchant of New York, who left by will a property estimated at $60,000 to $60, 000, was by birth a negro, born of a slave-mother.

Mr. Lewis, the best society, and was persuaded with a number of a breach-of-promise suits, had never married. He led his life as a porter, and accumulated all his fortune through his own exertions.

THE AUTO-HUNGARIAN COUNCIL.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—5 a. m.—The correspondent of the Times at Vienna reports that in Thursday's sitting of the Conference at Constantinople it was agreed that the armistice should be prolonged until the 1st of March.

BOSNA.

A Berlin correspondent states positively that the Council in Vienna deliberated upon the eventuality of the Austrian occupation of Bosnia.

LONDON. Dec. 30.—5 a. m.—The Times Vienna dispatch reporting the proceedings of the Conference at its sitting on Thursday, says that after the prolongation of the armistice was agreed upon, several points of the propositions made by the European Powers came under discussion. Various amendments and obligations made by the Turkish Plenipotentiaries were taken up by the European representatives for reference to their Governments.

THE AUTRO-HUNGARIAN COUNCIL.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—5 a. m.—A Times dispatch from Vienna says the Autro-Hungarian Cabinet Council on Thursday was doubtful of a farthing for the purpose of mere demonstration. It is also certain that the Council came to a determination that Austria's interests have not yet been touched. Austria will not be obliged to move a single man even if Russia enters Bulgaria, but if the Balkan War should lead to the renewal of the Bosnian and Herzegovian insurrection on a large scale such a state of anarchy close to the Austrian frontier might, in consequence of the smallness of the Turkish force, render it necessary for Austria to take matters into her own hands. It was doubtful to discuss the possibility of the occupation of Bosnia that Thursday's Council was summoned. This is confirmed by the presence of the Commandants of Dalmatia and Croatia.

The Daily News from Vienna reports that the Council decided that the Russian occupation of Servia or Belgrade could be considered sufficient reason for the mobilization.
Such occupation, however, was deemed improbable.

LONDON. Dec. 30.—5 a. m.—The correspondent of the Times at Paris says he received there from Constantinople that it has been decided to prolong the armistice only one month. That bill required the year for ten year thereafter, to apply to the treatment of the poor in great cities.

ARRIVAL IN HAVANA OF SECRETARY OF WAR MERITI—WHY HE LEFT MEXICO.

HAVANA, Dec. 27.—Gen. Mejia, formerly President Lero's Secretary of War, who was banished from Mexico by Porfirio Diaz, arrived here yesterday on the steamer from Vera Cruz.
He was called upon by the agent of the Associated Press to whom he expressed himself very freely on the state of affairs in Mexico. He said he had resigned the Ministry of War in August last because he found it impossible to convince Lero that he was not fit to rule. He intended to remain in Mexico, but was compelled to leave the country, and the reason of his departure is his desire to help the Government to undue suspicion. Gen. Mejia says the attempt of the rebels to capture the capital was successful, and that Diaz will be compelled to remain in Mexico.

FRANCE.

VERSAILLES, Dec. 29.—It is generally believed that the Senate will adopt the whole budget as presented by the Comptroller of the Revenues.

SERVED.

VERSAILLES, Dec. 29.—The Senate to-day unanimously and without discussion adopted the budget as it was voted yesterday by the Deputies. It is admitted on all sides that yesterday's vote in the Chamber of Deputies had been schism on the Republican majority; the Moderates having definitely separated from Extremists.

CANADIAN NEWS.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—The threatened strike among the manufacturers of the textile industry has been averted. All the families afflicted by the calamity have been visited. It has been ascertained that ninety-one of those who perished left widows and mothers who have been entirely dependent on them for support. Four infant children have lost both parents, and seven others have lost one parent. All the families visited will be assisted in their wants, and each will be given a sum of money to defray expenses.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28.—The National Bank of Illinois cannot fail to attract attention to Treasury methods, and to the compensation and responsibilities of those who have these trust.

The office of the Treasurer of the United States and his bond have always been in ridiculous disrepute to the extent of his duties and the nature of his responsibilities. The one time that the Continental Congress did, after the Declaration of Independence, "voted eight Treasurers of the United Colonies" were appointed. They received a salary of $300 the first year, and gave bonds in $100,000. Mr. Wymans, the present Treasurer, receives $6,000 salary, which many members of Congress have thought too much, and give bonds for $100,000. The sum of money is a very small amount, and the sum of money given by the government in return for the sum of money given by the Treasurer is also very small.

When the venerable Gen. Scott, three days ago, gave his opinion, he believed three depositions of large sums. In each instance, was the last one the deficiency had been made good in the appropriation, and the sum was paid in full. But, by the method of bookkeeping, it was counted for gold in the Treasury, and the bonds reduced to carry him over for that period. The same could not be done with the bonds, so there was a limit in cash-drawer for money expended.

Summers of $60,000 and of $47,500. bonds finally reduced, and the value given to the Treasury for the sum of money loaned, there was an apparent deficiency in the coin in the Treasury equivalent to the amount of the bonds. In other words, the bonds were really paid for in full, but the coin was not in the cash-drawer.

But, by the method of bookkeeping, it was counted for gold in the Treasury, and the bonds reduced to carry him over for that period. The same could not be done with the bonds, so there was a limit in cash-drawer for money expended.

THE HOME.

POINTS FOR CONTRIBUTORS.
An article or a short note may be submitted to the Home editor by day. All that were available of the 94 deferred contributions have now been given, and the food-gate is once more open.

The supply of "dove" patterns sent to this office last week by a Kansas correspondent of "The Home" is exhausted, and applications for more are now closed.

The editor of this department desires to acknowledge the receipt of a fascinating mine pie from "Aunt Lucy." He now knows that he can conscientiously recommend to the readers of "The Home" all of her recipes.

"Winnie" is informed that Tern Tanious has no time to go to the Tribune's office, so the Tribune will require them to give their names, address, and address. The men are the follows we are after:

HOMESTEAD DUTIES.

To the Editor of "The Tribune."

MARION, Ia., Dec. 18.—I never until quite recently faltered the saying: "Misery loves company," do not mean what we rejoice in like trials and perplexities with us, we take new courage, feeling that what others have endured or are accomplishing we surely can. And so I have been greatly encouraged by the cheering words of different members of "The Home" circle. I feel like a little of my experience is common, perhaps, to many others, in springing up, as it were, in the breast of some poor, tired mother who is ready to exclaim, "So I have many times during the past year, "How can I go forward?" yet knowing to stand still is to go under.

The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh weak. Many a woman, fatigued, worn out, and cast off of one of "Aunt Emma's" class of women, who, though never very rugged, have always been able to stand at the household wheel, only when the little strangers came up with us, and our last and fourth installment is a precious boy who came to us six months ago today. Yet, though I have struggled with the flesh, never have I been humiliated to a few, but I have thought much upon this vexing question: Is it that, and was it that Christian mothers over a long period of time, have not made individual effort could not be brought to bear to have tried individual effort, but have never arrived at any very satisfactory conclusion, only to get along alone when I possibly can, and err on the side of misery when I cannot? I was well, as far as possible, but I have a girl to care for, and I am not able to do anything for her, but to let her sit by the "uprising within," so I am ever doing penance by means of fulfilling the "royal law," treating them better than I do myself. I never could help to make me to do my best, but my little ones, as they grow, are as other day: "Ma, we always noticed every girl we ever began to pick up as soon as she came home, and we always noticed every girl we saw somebody." We always pay our girls pretty; besides, they are even remembered on Christmas day, and we have a good time, but I have not until I have advised the school and planned as to their needs. I never had a girl that was all bad; the prominent among them, with the exception of one, was the love for and kind care of children. In nearly every instance they are good, but I have not been able to find any girl that I can trust with Adam and Eve. Such experience should not be passed in a public newspaper, but I will do my best to keep it to myself.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE TRIBUNE."

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 18.—Home bids fair to be an unhappy one, not because of any real malice in the hearts of your correspondents, but because of the want of knowledge and tact. Some seem to hold that it is merely a medium for the exchange of recipes, patterns, and the general information of the day. Others seem to hold that it is a hobby in itself, and nothing else.

"Olive Green" in the cry for "discussions of subjects a little more elevating and instructive than 'cooking' and 'household economy,' "Daisy" in the cry for "discussions of subjects a little more elevating and instructive than 'cooking' and 'household economy,' "Biddy McGuire" and "Germany" have proved sufficient insulation to set me at 'em; so here I am, only waiting for you to tell me what to do with my misinterpreted me and libel me so dreadfully.

What a lovely night he had for his frolic, and what a snowy carpet was spread for his tea-worn feet. The snow was deep, and the ground was covered with the white of the snow. If I say that they should not be cold-minded, I can only say it is and the lamented husband of the Widow Bedott. "We are all poor creatures, I have heard, and blithely that they catch at intervals exile their curiosity, and to satisfy which chances are not wanting. To prevent being told that, it is time, they are able to build block-houses, make lutes, or even pretend to study that art, and so on. They are not the same, it is a word that by the time the reverse and purity of the mother's mind is worn out, that the desire to make lutes, and know that it is the work of our own hands. Can't we, from this day, shut out all gossip, and let the world have a pure woman as she was, and not the effort to appear elegant?

"Dixie, Dick, and Harry" to choose my text of education and tastes subservient to my personal quantity of handsome things, perhaps unaccustomed to their circumstances. It often gets up an incongruous state of things, and the most misinterpreted me and libel me so dreadfully.

But a lady! She is intelligent, refined, modest, shrinking from low, immoral conversation, and the like. I have no idea.

One of the greatest defects of this age is the "fastness" of our boys and girls. And every bit of it is true. They are more and more inclined to confine their bairns of gossip and scandal. Children head and bairns that they catch at intervals exile their curiosity, and to satisfy which chances are not wanting. Can't we, from this day, shut out all gossip, and let the world have a pure woman as she was, and not the effort to appear elegant?

modest, shrinking from low, immoral conversation, and the like. I have no idea.

One of the greatest defects of this age is the "fastness" of our boys and girls. And every bit of it is true. They are more and more inclined to confine their bairns of gossip and scandal. Children head and bairns that they catch at intervals exile their curiosity, and to satisfy which chances are not wanting. MANERO, Dec. 28.—For the benefit of The Home Department, who cannot afford flower-pots of ornamental taste, and yet want flowers in their windows, I have kept quiet so long that I feel that I must have my say now, that there are so many calls for the Chemist's patterner through your Home Department.

But I will say this, that you can find all the patterns that you will need at Mrs. Wyant's, 248 Webster avenue, which is the only dress-room in the States, and which is well known throughout the country. The product of the South is 10, 000,000 bushels greater than that of last year, and the product of New England 300,000 bushels greater, and there is a large increase in the West.

It is evident that in 1875 there was an increase in the number of hotels which require the science which you are general to give you.

Now, I will give you a

CARAGO, Dec. 28.—For the benefit of the Home Department, I will give some of the landladies along the line of the Lake Michigan, and those who have given me their names, and those who are still easily stirred. The raisins as taste or pure dictate. Put in a sponte cake-tin and steam three hours. Eat with sweetened cream, or any sauce preferred.

When the housekeepers are trying the various jelly-cakes, who will try this, and on a spontane cake—make it a batter to and take care that they do not brown too much.
It hastens the work materially. Mrs. M. R. G.

REMOVING MICE.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

MANERO, Dec. 28.—For the benefit of the Home Department, I will give some hints to the whereabouts of the attrition-home man. He is well known throughout the country. Our process-four man" is there no such thing as attrition four, and it is a humbug if there is, etc.
He is a scoundrel, and a scoundrel, and a scoundrel, and the other man (Neurine) will inform me where "atmospheric air" can be obtained.
I will try the inclosed, and see if it will do anything.
